METHODOLOGY:

This bill shifts the burden to a domestic violence plaintiff to file a request for a hearing prior to the expiration of a protective order, otherwise any firearm, ammunition or deadly weapons will be returned to the defendant. The bill repeals a prohibition that law enforcement shall not release firearms, ammunition or deadly weapons without a court order and prevents law enforcement from charging a reasonable fee for the storage costs of firearms, ammunition or deadly weapons. This bill also repeals law enforcement’s release from liability for the damages to any firearm, ammunition or deadly weapons during the course of storage or transportation.

The Department of Safety states it is unable to estimate this bill’s impact on law enforcement (state, county, and local), however has identified the following potential cost areas:

- Increased cost for storage fees of firearms, ammunition, and deadly weapons.
- Increased cost for potential damages to firearms, ammunition, and deadly weapons due to the repeal of the release of liability.
- Increased cost for training of law enforcement, updating policies and procedures and internal forms.

The Department of Justice states this bill would significantly increase obligations on victim/witness advocates employed by the Department. Although this bill does not contain express obligations on the part of advocates, practically, it would obligate advocates to keep track of all protective orders involving firearms and assist victims with filing motions relative to prohibiting a domestic violence protective order defendant from reacquiring firearms even where a protective order extension request is pending. The Department anticipates it would need to hire one (1) victim witness advocate, and with an assumed hire date of October 1, 2024, this position would have an estimated total cost of $101,000 in FY 2025, $132,000 in FY 2026, and $137,000 in FY 2027. This bill contains neither authority nor appropriation for new personnel.

The Judicial Branch states it is not possible for it to estimate how this change in law would impact the frequency and complexity of filings, and therefore is unable to estimate this bill’s impact (if any) on its budget.
